IS CHILD CROSS,

Look, Mother! If tongue is coated, give "California Syrup of Figs."

Children love this "fruit laxative," and hothing else cleaness the tender stemach, liver and bowels so nicely. A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets' sluggish, stomach sours, then your little one becomed wors, half-sick, feverish, don't eat, lies or act naturally, breath is had, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach-sche or diarrhoes. Listen, souther! See if tongue is conted, then give a temspoonful of "California lyrup of Figs." and in a few hours all the constituted waste, sour bile and postigated waste, sour bile and ndigested food passes out of the sys-m, and you have a well child again. Millions of mothers give. "California yrup of Figs" because it is perfectly symless; children love it, and it nev-falls to set on the stomach, liver

The gingham dress is a small plaid pattern, with tan and soft darker colorings crossed with very narrow bars in black. It is cut with a novel yoke which drops at each side of the front and slopes down to the waist line at the sides. The shape is the same at the back.

The skirt portion is plaited into the roke at the back and sides and partly cross the front. But at the center the fullness is taken up by shirrings.

The neck is cut round, with a shalow "V" opening at the front and finished with a small sailor collar of plain tan linen. The edges of the collar and the cuffs that match it are finished with buttonhole stitching in heavy linen floss. Deep blue and produces sparks by fiblack are the colors used for the like a pair of shears.

The white lines trock has a platted skirt with a panel at the front and shallow plaits at each side. It is set on to a plain waist of organdie, cut with round neck finished with a narrow band. It fastens down the front with small crochet buttons. The short linen jacket is scalloped and embroidered by hand about the edges, and the sailor collar and narrow turned-back cuffs are made to match it. The girdle is of black velvet, fastening at the back under a small flat bow.

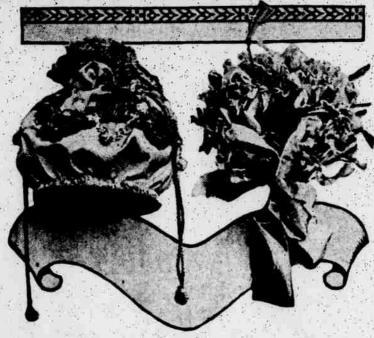

Colored linens as well as white are used for this model, but white is the most satisfactory in the long run.
